The Soul’s Cord: A Method for Encountering the Unborn

PRENATAL BONDING (Bindungs-Analyse by Raffai) provides the opportunity for the mother to not only intensely bond with her prenate during pregnancy, but also to witness the marvellous developmental process of her prenate in the womb over time. In addition, any prenatal trauma that may have occurred from either current stress or possible intergenerational negative experience has the possibility to be identified and healed. In this respect the method is at the same time an empowerment of bonding between mother and fetus and a great help for giving birth safely and much more easily. After birth the baby has a remarkable degree of self-esteem and full access to its personal potential. Based on extensive research in Psychoanalysis and Pre- and Perinatal Psychology and Medicine, the Hungarian Psychoanalyst Jenoe Raffai developed this ground-breaking strategy to support pregnant women from the early beginning of gestation until birth. More than 2000 facilitations have been documented and evaluated since 1995 in Europe with outstanding results for the physical as well as the social-emotional maturity of the babies. Prenatal Bonding (BA) has the potential to avoid postpartum depression, to optimize the physical and mental health of the child and the family and to prevent child maltreatment. It is the most extended general health prevention for a future generation available until now.

After the grand success of the first PRENATAL BONDING (BA) CURRICULUM in Seattle, WA and Champaign, IL a second training will be offered in Sacramento, CA leading to certification by the originator Jenoe Raffai.
